Hi Tiffany,

We've reviewed the TJWQP proposal from Swinomish. Since we've provided more detailed comments in the previous 2 years, and since the proposal has not significantly changed, we do not have additional comments to add at this point.

We do note that it appears that the proposal has been modified in response to some of our earlier comments (e.g., the project review group has been specifically connected with the technical review objective). However, it was not clear whether one of our major comments, urging the applicant to consider reaching out to Ecology's marine water quality monitoring program, has been addressed. The applicant may have considered this recommendation and disagreed (or attempted to address it and not been successful). However, we still feel that some discussion with Ecology's marine water quality monitoring program would be helpful for the project to meet some of its stated goals, especially the relevance of collected data to various water quality programs.

Please let me know if there are any questions! Thanks,

Lisa
